RENO, Nev., Sept. 26.—Regular operation on an airplane in connection with the business of mining, believed to be the first attempt of this sort, is the plan of C. I. Eastman, general manager of a gold property near Minden. Eastman, an ace in the British Flying Corps during the World War, said he hoped to use the plane not only to travel 60 miles to the mine electric plant, but also for other "errands."

Colored Lad Is Taken to School Despite Protest

"That's my boy and I can't afford to buy him books for school. You let him alone."

This assertion, coming from a gentleman of color, did not stay the long arm of the law, personified by a local truant officer, who was tightly clasping the frightened boy's arm to prevent his escape. Despite the protests of the parent, the lad was taken to school.

The loud argument between the boy's father and the truant officer attracted a great deal of attention in front of the city hall this morning. The boy being of school age, had been shining shoes in a barber shop, it seems, when the officer took him in charge.

Local boosters resented the attack on roads conditions in this state and promptly wired the station that the road is entirely passable, that upwards of 150 tourist cars are coming through here daily. The message also declared that this rout is 700 miles shorter. The request to correct the announcement however, went unheeded.

Nationally Famous Illustrator Writes Friends Here

In response to a letter written two years ago to Dean Cornwell, noted New York illustrator, Warren Cunningham has received the following which will, no doubt, prove interesting to many of Mr. Cornwell's friends in Middlesboro, who knew him as a talented young musician and artist during the years of 1906 07. The current issue of the Cosmopolitan contains an article written by Mr. Cornwell, accompanied by picutres of himself with his studio surroundings.

The letter in full, follows:

"A letter from you dated August 12, 1922, was thrown into my brief case along with several dozen others, and taken on shipboard with me, thinking I would have the place and the time to answer all. Well, have you ever tried it? It's a great mistake, and anyway, the Bell Printing company use good stock. This letter went all over England, France, Sicily and then "one night stands" all through northern Africa, and at present it is in front of me.

"Now I wish to apologize and to thank you for the article in the Daily News. Trite as the line may be, those were the 'happy days." I have great fun relating how I made ice cream, played cornet in the opera house of Skeet Dugan, furnished dance music at the hotel and planned my famous entrance, with its hasty exit into vaudeville. Incidentally this very same instrument with me behind it was part of last year's "Passing Show" at the New York Winter Garden for the opening week. This was more time than I was really able to spare but it brought back so much of those days that I couldn't resist.

To explain my being there, the Society of Illustrators each year write and act a show for their friends, the editors and publishers. It so happened that the society arranged two years ago to sell out the later use of all material in our show to the Schuberts. The number in which I performed on the cornet was added to the Passing Show, while the balance formed artists and models. At Schubert's request I consented to do it the opening night. It was such fun I found myself reporting at every performance for a week.

"You doubtless have seen the current issue of the Cosmopolitan. It may amuse you. If at any time you see any one of my old friends in Middlesboro do give them my warmest regards."

Sincerely,

DEAN CORNWELL.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 26.—The old windmills of Holland, pictured in so many Dutch landscapes, are slowly but surely going down below modern machinery. They did their work well, and were picturesque, but the electric pump is even more efficient, and its advent is making the windmill a thing of the past.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

THAT no business can be successful without the aid of advertising.

THAT some have tried to succeed without it. The tales of their ruin are numerous and heart-rending.

THAT lessons have been learned by bitter experience. Examples are numerous which serve to marke the pitfalls and warn the unwary of the danger in trying to succeed without advertising.

THAT it pays to be guided by those who have learned through experience that it pays to advertise.

THAT persistent advertisers are progressing in prosperity. They are the ones that progress, built higher standards for business, and who always serve themselves well by seizing every opportunity to serve the community in which they are located.

THAT these business concerns have the priceless treasure of the good will of the people of the home community.

THAT they have built a close relationship with the public through the medium of the advertising columns of the newspapers.

Newspaper Advertising is INDISPENSABLE. It is the GREATEST boon to ANY BUSINESS.

BANKERS PLAN TO MEET IN CHICAGO

Golden Convention to be Held There September 29, to October 2.

Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 —Bankers of the United States, who meet in their golden convention here on September 29-October 2, have planned a most diversified program of business and financial discussions, according to Walter W. Head, president of the American Bankers Association, and have arranged for many of the leading minds of the country to address them.

The association represents 22,000 banks with an estimated capital and surplus of more than six billion dollars and aggregate resources in excess of fifty billions of dollars.

Outside the subjects of finances, railroads, agriculture, citizenship, government and other problems in which the bankers are interested, Mr. Head has pointed out that it is a presidential year and a time when "great decisions are being made in affairs of government, finance and economics—a time when knowledge and experience are at a premium."

"In the open forum for personal contact and convention discussions, our members will share their knowledge and experience with each other," he declared. "This convention will be an occasion of peculiar interest to all bankers." Mr. Head will speak on the part the banker has in the nation's business.

An entertainment program equally as elaborate has been prepared by the Chicago committee and includes sight seeing trips, luncheons, theatre parties, a smoker and a golf tournament.

Among the speakers are Arthur Reynolds, president of the Continental and Commercial National Bank of Chicago; C. H. Markham, president of the Illinois Central Railroad, John E. Edgerton, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; James C. Cropsey, Justice of the Supreme Court of New York, Senator George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, E. T. Meredith, Dwight W. Morrow, J. P. Morgan & Co.

OLYMPIAD HOUSES MAY BE RETAINED

Some of the Buildings to Revert to Racing Club, Others to City of Paris.

Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—The question of the final disposal of the expensive stadiums erected here for the recent Olympiad, asked many times last summer when the events were being contested, has now been answered.

The Colombes stadium will revert to the Racing club of France, one of the most prosperous rugby and soccer football institutions in the country, which advanced the 2,000,000 francs necessary to begin its construction when the funds appropriated by the government were slow in materializing. It will be the scene of all the international rugby and soccer matches, as well as the finals of the French football leagues. The dressing rooms capable of housing 1,500 athletes at one time, will be undisturbed.

The swimming pool and stadium at Les Tourelles will be administered by the city of Paris, which footed the bill for their construction. It remains as the most impressive and durable monument built in connection with the 1924 Olympic games. It is the present intention of the city to throw it open to the public three days a week during the summer months.

The tennis stands near the Colombes stadium will be scrapped. The installation was defective and found little favor with either players or spectators during the games. On the other hand, the swimming pool, the construction of which was abandoned by the Olympic Compic Committee when they decided to use the city pool, is to be filled in and turned into a tennis court.

The expensive stands erected at Saint Cloud for the polo matches also will be torn down.

Collect Souvenirs Westminster Abbey

LONDON, Sept, 26.—Many of the fine monuments of Westminister Abbey are being badly treated by the tourists who visit London's ancient edifice. Several of the monuments are minus fragments, such as fingers and toes, and from the walls themselves several bits have been broken off to satisfy the souvenir hunter.

The latest loss is the large spear head from the instrument carried by the figure of death in the monument erected to the memory of the Nightingale family. The thefts, however, are gradually diminishing. This is due to the scarcity of suitable souvenirs, and the alertness of several new guards placed in the abbey.

Appellate Court Affirms Verdict In Trial Here.

CASE IS REVIEWED

Edmonds Convicted of Killing Hiram Honeycutt in Slagtown Here Early This Year.

Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Sept. 26. —The Court of Appeals today affirmed Bell Circuit Court's sentence of Verne Edmonds, fixed at life imprisonment, for the murder of Hiram Honeycutt, resident of Slagtown, suburb of Middlesboro.

Judge Dury, in writing the facts of the case, said that Mrs. Honeycutt and her two children lived lived with Hiram in a small house. The husband was near-sighted and, at times, almost blind. The family was asleep when he was murdered.

The bed-room was dimly lighted with an improvised lamp made of a pickle bottle. The intruder put out the light but carried a flash-light. "His face was black but his hands were white," Mrs. Honeycutt stated, adding that she "jumped from the bed and grabbed an axe" which was wrung from her by the intruder.

He began shooting. Edmonds shot Honeycutt four times. The four year old daughter was shot once from which she recovered. The next day the officers found Edmonds, his faced still blacked, at the home of his mother at Columbia.

The appeal was requested on grounds that the court had failed to give the jury the whole law in the case which the appelate court found unwarranted.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—"Bureaucracy" unquestionably is going to have a fight on its hands in the next Congress.

As Congressman Steagall, of Alabama put it recently. "It's about time we found out whether we have a free government or are ruled by a lot of departments and divisions, bureaus, commissions and boards."

Steagall is a member of the committee engaged in investigating the charge that big bunches of war time government bonds were printed in duplicate, that one set of these duplicates was sold by the government in the regular way, that the other set was sold by individuals who put the money in their pockets, that the treasury can't tell the sets apart now, and consequently has to redeem them both.

Certain treasury records were needed in connection with the inquiry and Manager James F. Macloughtry of the securities division of the treasurer's division of loans and currency said the committee couldn't have them.

His refusal raised such a storm that finally he yielded, but only as a great favor, not as a matter of right on the investigator's side.

This is only just one illustration. Similar cases come up all the time.

It isn't alone the numerous bureau chiefs think themselves above the law, the courts, congress and everybody else, when they're called on for something. They not only demand to be let alone. They claim the right to interfere with others.

What's more they get away with it.

There are plenty of things in this country that a citizen can or cannot do, nor as the courts or any clearly defined laws decide but simply according to what some single individual in a swivel chair in Washington says about it.

The system has been growing for 10 years or so. Since the war it has been growing very fast.

Congress started it.

It would pass some sweeping general law, leaving however, all the details to the immagination, and then create a bureau or unit or a section of some department to to do the "interpreting."

If some of his subject citizens did something along my line of activity over which that chief claimed jurisdiction, maybee what he did was all right or maybee it actually was criminal and he could be fined or locked up for it, depending on the bureau chief's "interpretation."

This made the chief of that particular little group practically a dictator within his sphere of authority.

Although Congress started all this, now it's gettin sick of it.

So are others.

"Too much bureaucracy" is a slogan much heard in campaign orators—and heard from orators of all parties.

Arctic Ice Confuses Radio in Far North

Associated Press

OTTAWA, Ont September 26 — Establishment of the farthest north radio station in the world on Herschell Island in the Arctic Ocean at the mouth of the Mackenzie river has been abandoned for this year the National Defense Department of Canada announces, because of failure of the motor ship Lady Kindersley to get through ice in the Arctic Ocean with equipment

Ice in the Arctic Ocean this summer not only caught the Lady Kindersley, but seized the trading schooner Arctic of San Francisco, and crippled and turned back the cutter Bear of the United States Coast Guard This vessel was to have taken off a group of 13 persons left on Wrangell Island north of Siberia in 1923

ARGENTINE SHOW HAS LOCAL GIRLS

Dancers of Pulchritude Increases Attendance of South American Theater.

By Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 26—The theater impresarios of Buenos Aires have at last developed what never has been done before on the local stage, pretty shapely and tuneful Argentine chorus girls

In past years foreigners who saw the so-called revues in Buenos Aires seldom went more than once They came away declaring that the Argentina show girls were the most awful collection of ill looking, apathetic and voiceless specimens of femininity they had ever seen Two years ago one enterprising theater manager imported a company from Paris which included a chorus of unusually good looking women Last year two Paris companies came and although they played to crowded houses the expense of bringing them such a long distance and paying the salaries of the stars made profits small

This season the local theater managers decided they could produce just as good from local talent by making the effort to find it Two of them succeeded in offering high salaries, importing Parisian ideas for costumes, selecting graceful young women, and employing efficient dancing and music masters to train them Both theaters have had the S R O sign out for two months and Americans who have attended the performances exclaim, 'Well, this is more like New York'

NOME Alaska Sept 1 —Every year since Nome can remember the entire native village of King Island make a pilgrimage to the city, arriving about July 1 and remaining most of the summer

The natives, a clean, industrious and healthy lot, make the trip of approximately 100 miles in boats which they build from the hides of walrus Seven of these boats carry the whole population including all their possessions

The King Islanders are clever carvers Arriving in Nome with several tons of ivory, they carve the rough tusks into cribbonds gavels forks, knives, spoons, umbrella handles, hatpins and numerous other things The merchants and people of Nome patronize them liberally so that the camp usually collects thousands of dollars during the season and these profits they put back into circulation by purchasing supplies for the next winter

These Eskimos enter the summer athletic contests at Nome and often develop athletes of ability At other times they provide entertainments with their orchestra

THE LIGHT THAT CHARMS

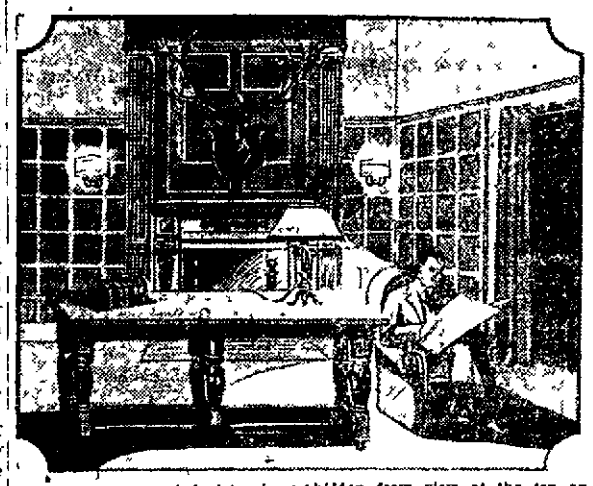
Letters of Doris to Jean

Dear Jean:

It was rather reckless of you to ask me about shades for portable lamps. If there is anything I like to talk about better than another, it is that, but I shall try and tell you the salient points briefly

It will be less confusing if I refer to table and floor lamps as "portables" and the Mazda incandescent lamp as a "lamp"

There are a few portables used



purely for ornament, just to give a spot of color or a decorative touch The only stipulation for these shades is adequate protection for the eye The lamp filament must not be visible This test holds good for all lamp shades and many materials will meet this requirement, glass, parchment, silk paper, chintz, and so on The glass of course, must be of a special sort Clear glass would not serve the purpose Similarly, two or three thicknesses of silk may be needed or a heavy grade

Next comes the shape It is essential for it to be deep enough to conceal the lamp from view Naturally, the broader the bottom is the larger the area lighted below. A stand of greater height will increase the lighted area beyond the table.

Deep fringe at the bottom of a deep shade is another thing that limits the area lighted It tends to send the light straight downward allowing little or none to spread sideways

When the portable is high enough for the light source to be hidden from view at the top an open topped shade is often desirable, especially if the room is lighted by table and floor lamps as this provides some light for the upper part of the room When a lamp is visible from above a small topped or covered topped shade will conceal it and should be used Any lamp which is at all visible should be frosted or a "white Mazda used

Blue is a bad color for shades because it absorbs great quantities of light and lacks the mellow qualities of yellow orange and rose

Lots of love,

DORIS

BURASH, England, Sept. 26 — H is not the only letter which is frequently silent in England 'W' also is often lost, especially in proper names, as in Burwash, which is pronounced Bur'ash

Knowledge of how to pronounce the name of this town recetnly won an enterprising woman an autograph letter from Rudyard Kipling, the most celebrated resident of Burwash Failing to get an audience with Kipling the woman wrote a parody on one of his poems and mailed it to the poet. In the parody she rhymed words with Burwash which showed she knew how to pronounce the name correctly and Kipling was so surprised that he mailed her a letter of thanks

LINOLEUM FOR BEAUTY AND PERMANENCY

A good linoleum covered floor should be cemented in place over a lining of builders' deadening felt. Laid this way the seams are not noticable, the linoleum will not stretch or crack, will never need refinishing and will last a life time.

Never scrub linoleum. Wash it with a mild soap as strong soap or washing powders will injure linoleums or any other fine floor. All linoleum needs is to mop with damp cloth as the oxidized linseed oil mixed with cork will not absorb dust. The dust is only on the surface.

Think this over and then come in and let us demonstrate to you and show the amount of work it will save in keeping the floors looking nice and in keeping down dust.

Iodine Salt is a Goiter Preventive

Not a fad or a hastily conceived notion, but a scientific fact. After years of research and experiment medical science has determined that simple Goiter is caused by a deficiency of Iodine in the food or water supply and that it can be prevented by adding Iodine to table salt for every-day use. Hence MULKEY'S IODINE SALT.

Ask your grocer for it. Put up in two-lb. round cartons with pouring spout which makes it easy to fill the salt cellars.

WEATHER NOTE

The forest is glad today. The show last night have made the wood-folk sing;
Thrushes, vireos, and the little flower gay
Warblers, every feathered thing
Saving the cuckoo, who sat sounding
His tuneless bell through all the days
Of windless dazzle, and now is still
At the wood is filled with a glad amaze,
And a pulse and tremble of joy-
Listen!
The drenched bees hum, and the cricket shrills
His hair of song. There is a gleam
Of rain in the larches, a glint on a the hills,
And a sparkle and flash to the little mad brook,
As it comes spilling down through the moss and the stones.
The whole wood has a shining look
Of leaves new-green, of flowers new-colored.
From everything there seems to come
A singing radiance. Why does the cuckoo—
The sulky cukoo dare to be dumb?

MABEL BROWNELL ENOYS HER ROLE

Likes Part In "Meet the Wife," Comedy Which Comes Here Wednesday.

Mabel Brownell, who has scored heavily in the role of Gertrude Lennox in "Meet the Wife," the comedy Jules Hurtig is presenting at the Manring on Wednesday, October 1, declares she enjoys this part more than any other she ever portrayed because it is so human and true to life.

"It is true that Gertrude Lennox as portrayed in "Meet the Wife" is a caricature," said Miss Brownell, "but she is expertly drawn from life, for I have met many Gertrude Lennoxes in the small towns. Gertrude Lennox to me is another Babbitt. Or perhaps I should call her the feminine Babbitt. She is forever trying to run the town, hold every available honorary ofice and ensare every celebrity into her home as her guest in order to create envy in the hearts of the other women of the community.

I doubt very much if the Gertrude Lennoxes in real life realize how funny they are. They are usually mixed up in so many thinks, their activities are so multiple, they scarcely have time to realize that even the years are creeping up on them. They love to order people around, and when inferiors, or people whom they regard as inferiors, refuse to bow to their iron will, they swear to report them to those higher up, so hereafter they will know enough to cater to the Gertrude Lennoxes.

"Oh, yes," concluded Miss Brownell, "Gertrude Lennox is a caricature alright, but she is so human and so true, and so typical of the social climbers in the average small town, that I adore bringing her to the stage."

KIWANIANS BENEVOLENT

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 27.—In an address before the Richmond Kiwanis Club last night in Murphys hotel, Joseph M. Feutress, district governor, commended the Kiwanis clubs of this district on the work they are doing for under-privileged children and urged that there be no diminution of activity in this direction. Mr. Feutress pointed out that there are thousands of children in the country who are too poor to attend school. Thanks largely to the Kiwanis clubs, he said, this number is being lessened constantly. In this connection he commended the Danville club, practically every member of which he said, has adopted a child. The district governor paid tribute to his predecessor, the late Josiah D. Hanks.

CHINA COULD BE POWERFUL NATION

Lack of Leadership Cause of Present Plight of Orients, Reports.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 25.—If the nation of China had a real leader it would be a first class power within ten years, in the opinion of Col. Eldred Pottinger, who came here to lecture on Eastern problems in their relation to Australia.

Development of a leader is by no means impossible, Col. Pottinger holds. Thousands of Chinese have western education and millions have experienced the advantages of democratic self-government in other countries.

Expansion, he believes, is more important to China than to Japan. China has nowhere to send her people unless she can force an outlet. At present this is impossible but with a strong central government, under a firm dictator, it would be possible.

"There are 400 million people in China, which commands unlimited resources. Let these people be welded and the world will have to watch unceasingly the land of the dragon," is the colonel's prediction.

"China's opportunity to strike at an unpeopled land would be in the event of a war between Japan and the United States and a rebellion to occupy the British in These things are not impos and it must be remembered tha Chinese properly led, are fine diers."
